Circular No. SBP-DR-0126-2013

General Manager

Subject: Issuance of New One Hundred Dollar Notes.

Dear General Manager:

We wish to inform you that on October 8, 2013, the United States Federal Reserve issued a new, redesigned one hundred dollar note ($100.00) that incorporates new security features to deter counterfeiters and help businesses and consumers tell whether a note is genuine.

The redesigned $100 note includes two new security features: a blue 3-D security ribbon with images of bells and 100s, and a color-changing bell in an inkwell. Please find below the image for further reference:

3-D security ribbon: The front of the new note has a blue ribbon with images of bells that change to the number “100” when the note is tilted.

Bell in the inkwell: The front of the new note has the image of a bell in the inkwell that changes color from copper to green when the note is tilted.

For further information about the new design of the new one hundred dollar note ($100.00), visit the website www.newmoney.gov where you will find more details about the new design of the note, as well as training material provided by the United States Federal Reserve that may be used to train your staff to verify the authenticity of the new note

Yours truly,

Alberto Diamond R.
